Irving's Singing Girl Friend Will Visit Grand Jury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Danish singer Nina van Pallandt, who disputes Clifford Irving's claim about meetings in Mexico with Howard Hughes, says Irving had asked to marry her.

She said Friday she would go before a federal grand jury studying possible fraud charges against Irving and that her future relationship with the novelist "must now depend on the outcome of this whole affair."

The grand jury in New York is investigating Irving's claim that a book manuscript he sold to McGraw-Hill, Inc., was a Hughes autobiography assembled at meetings with the reclusive billionaire.

Irving had signed an affidavit saying he and Hughes had long sessions in Mexico about the purported autobiography and that Mrs. van Pallandt went with him.

However, the singer says she knows of no way Irving could have met Hughes in Mexico because she was never away from him more than 90 minutes, on the trip.

"He loves me; he has asked me to marry him and I am sure that is why he thought I would stand by him," she told newsmen Friday as she arrived in London with her manager, John Marshall.

"I never met Howard Hughes and I'm inclined to think now that Clifford has not either," she said.

Irving, 41, is married to his fourth wife, a Swiss artist, Mrs. van Pallandt, 39, has been separated from her second husband since 1969 when she and Irving met on the Spanish island of Ibiza, where both have homes.

The singer said she and Marshall would fly from London to New York next week, possibly Tuesday, to testify before the grand jury.

Former Hughes aide John Meier told the jury Friday he could tell by reading the manuscript whether the purported autobiography was authentic and offered to do so.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, (AP) — Security forces say guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army are slipping into the blockaded town of Newry to attack British troops sent there to disperse a planned civil rights march by Roman Catholics on Sunday.

Roads to Newry, near the border with the Irish Republic, have been blocked by soldiers who are searching vehicles for hidden arms. British intelligence officers say they were tipped by a woman that the IRA gave her sons British army uniforms to wear at the parade.

The planned parade Sunday by thousands of civil rights marchers has been declared illegal under Northern Ireland's ban on public processions. IRA leaders claim they have advised their members to avoid Newry over the week to prevent another "bloody Sunday" in this embattled British province.

In everyone's mind was the fear of a repetition of last Sunday's Londonderry shootout that left 13 civilians dead in clashes with army paratroopers.

Civil rights organizers pressed ahead with plans for the Newry march despite appeals to call it off from political and church leaders including William Cardinal Conway, Catholic Primate of all Ireland.

Nearly 90 per cent of Newry's

18,500 population are Catholics who mostly favor uniting the province with the independent Republic to the south.

The army and police made an eleventh-hour appeal for the parade to be abandoned and replaced by a "stationary" rally which would not violate the ban on public processions.

"Terrorists are likely to take advantage of any confrontations between marchers and security forces to launch armed attacks," the British military and Royal Ulsters Constabulary said.

Military spokesmen said gunmen in army uniforms probably would be able to move close to real soldiers and shoot them down.

Alternatively, the spokesmen said, a fanatic in a stolen uniform could shoot civilians and then run away leaving the army to take the blame.

Nearly 200 army combat jackets and camouflage pants were stolen from a Londonderry laundry last month.

About one-third of Britain's 15,000 Ulster-based troops are likely to be on hand in and around Newry on Sunday. Many more soldiers and police will be on standby alert to move into the town if the march turns violent.

Its organizers, the Civil Rights Association, declared that its arrangements would insure "a successful mass demonstration of peaceful defiance of the government."

Bomb Found At Airport Police Probe $100,000 Ransom Plot

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A bomb was found in a Vancouver International Airport locker and disarmed Friday night after a Canadian jetliner with 88 persons aboard was diverted to Anchorage, Alaska, in an extortion plot, authorities said.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police said CP Air officials were directed to the locker after receiving a phone call demanding "a large sum of money."

Authorities said a warning of a bomb threat was sent to the crew of a DC8, en route from Vancouver to Tokyo, and it was diverted to Anchorage. It was searched, but no bomb was found. The plane remained overnight in Anchorage for a so-called legal rest period before continuing Saturday morning to Tokyo.

Two flights from Toronto to Montreal with a total of nearly 200 passengers aboard were held in Toronto for searches after the threat was received.

Both planes continued to Montreal after one plane was detained for 90 minutes and the other for nearly three hours. No bombs were reported found there, however.

Officials declined to discuss the extortion threat, but one report put the ransom at $100,000. An early report also said the bomb weighed 30 pounds.

The Tokyo-bound "Empress 401," was about 400 miles north of Amchitka Island on the transpolar route over the Bering Sea when the crew received the warning, the Air Force Rescue Coordination Center at Elmendorf Air Force Base said.

The plane, under escort of an HC 130 Hercules rescue aircraft from Elmendorf, arrived over Anchorage at 8:10 p.m. and circled 45 minutes before landing.

CP Air said 78 passengers and a crew of 10 were aboard.

Stricken Family's Dream Comes True

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "I've been counting the days," exclaimed Robert Tauscheck as his family landed in Florida from Michigan to begin a belated expense-paid Christmas holiday at Walt Disney World.

The Tauschecks have six children; four of them suffering from crippling muscular dystrophy. Three are confined to wheelchairs.

Tauscheck, a tire salesman, had dreamed of taking his children to Disney World, but wasn't sure he would be able to afford it.

A newspaper article last December told the family's plight, and offers of money and help came pouring in from all over the country.

Glenn Turner, a Florida businessman, provided use of his private jet for the trip.

Bundled in galoshes and snow jackets, the Tauschecks deplaned in Tampa Friday evening to a waiting crowd of about 100 dignitaries and well-wishers.

Bashful little Paul, awed by the fanfare, stayed off by himself, and when no one was looking hugged a plastic Mickey Mouse toy he carried with him.

"The children have been pretty quiet," said Llamae Tauscheck. "I guess they can't believe it's really happening yet."

The Tauschecks, admittedly weary after an exhausting day that began in their hometown of Kingsford, Mich., found only one word to explain their feelings: "Wonderful."

"I don't know how else to explain it," said Mrs. Tauscheck.

The victims of the incurable disease are Joey, 12; Billy, 9; Bobby, 15, and Paul, 5. Two of the children show no signs of the illness, Peggy, 11, and Louis, 13.

Tampa's International Association of Firefighters Local 754 and a civic group, the Sertoma Club, raised $2,500 to help pay for the nine-day holiday.

Today, it's off for a visit to Busch Gardens, and Paul told his mother he wants some peanuts to feed elephants in the park zoo.

Sam Moore Enters Plea Of Guilty

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A 28-year-old Muskegon man, a former school teacher and basketball star, Friday pleaded guilty to a $101,000 bank robbery in Muskegon Dec. 16.

Sam Moore pleaded guilty before U.S. District Court Judge Albert J. Engel to a charge of bank robbery by assault with a dangerous weapon. The judge ordered Moore held for a presentence investigation.

Moore, who is being held without bond in the Kent County Jail, escaped Jan. 3 from Muskegon police. He was captured later in Detroit through a check of fingerprints.

The $101,000 taken from the Hackley Union Branch Bank in North Muskegon was recovered by police the same day along with a sawed-off shotgun.

Reporter Getting An Early Start

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — If Lansing residents are occasionally startled by a small boy peering through binoculars, jotting down notes on a pad, with a camera hanging about his neck, they can relax—it's only Neil Hanley Baron, The Lansing State Journal's ace 7-year-old reporter, after a story.

Neil—who attends first grade when not digging up scoops—applied for a job at the paper this week in a voice so sincere ("Sir, I would like to be a newspaper reporter for your newspaper reporting news from Glencairn school. My name is Neil Hanley Baron and I am 7½ years old and will do a good job.") that he could not be ignored.

His mother said he planned to use the binoculars for "spotting a good news story," and the camera and note pad to record it.

Told that his stories—"What the children are learning about" was his first—probably would appear in The State Journal, a somewhat fickle Neil immediately looked for other journalistic conquests.

"Do you think I could get a story in the Detroit Free Press?" he asked.

Curbing The Permanent Morning After Feeling

Agnes prior to ancient Rome ascent to and fall from glory, man has imbibed alcohol in one palatable form or another, and there is little doubt the historic counterparts of John Barleycorn influenced many decisions affecting the course of entire civilizations.

Mohamet quite possibly had this fuzzy result in mind in making totalling a keystone precept in the Moslem religion.

In those far gone days, when disease and disability were an accepted fatalism or normal living, alcohol served as an anesthetic and a solace. Seemingly, most cultures never regarded it as an affliction in its own right.

Nor did America's early settlers look upon it as something undesirable.

The Puritans, straight laced as they were in their conduct, laid in sizeable stores of ale, hard cider and home made wine.

Much of the tension leading up to the Revolutionary War was England's attempted interference with the profitable trade between the New England colonists and the West Indian Islands. The colonists swapped salted fish and lumber for rum and slaves. Whitehall held no moral scruples against the trade but sustained extreme irritation in its not sending excise taxes to the home country.

It is well documented that our country's westward expansion moved forward, in part, through trading firewater to the Indians for furs and land.

General Grant drank himself out of a lieutenant's commission in the regular army following his West Point graduation through boredom with garrison soldiering. Many of his biographers regard this as a fortune in disguise. Most of the Union's top military command was drawn from political appointments rather than from the regulars. Grant took his leap forward through being named a colonel of Illinois volunteers. He was the only man in the area who had any military experience worthy of the name.

The post Civil War era found the country starting to view alcohol in a light less sympathetic than those historic precedents painted it.

Carry Nation, one of the first women's libbers, began to swing an ax on the saloons' interior furnishings and in 1874 the WCTU (Women's Christian Temperance Union) was founded in Cleveland. Its guiding light, Frances E. Willard, declared alcohol an economic menace to the family.

Even earlier the Methodist Church officially had adopted prohibition as a mainstay in its credo.

Greatly aiding this reform movement by the Methodists and the WCTU was the obvious political alliance between the brewers, the saloonkeepers and the politicians. The compact played into the reformers' hands because many people equated clean government with a temperate officeholder.

The movement had gained sufficient momentum by 1900 to enact prohibition into law in many states and to put temperance instruction in many public school systems.

It peaked in 1919 with the adoption of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act prohibiting interstate transactions in any beverage headier than a 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. Exempted were a physician's prescription for a dose of the good (the hard) stuff or proprietary remedies such as Pinkham's Compound. The latter were 14 per cent or more in alcohol and enjoyed for years a wide distribution in areas noted for their bone dryness.

Prohibition created a backlash foreseen by no one.

The bootlegger and the organized crime units profited immensely on an illicit traffic.

The problem had grown so unmanageable that the public scrapped Prohibition in 1933 and sent the country back to the local option status that first developed in the mid-19th century.

The problem today is a revision in Mrs. Willard's economics.

She made the dramatic, simplistic appeal of the saloonkeeper taking bread from the family.

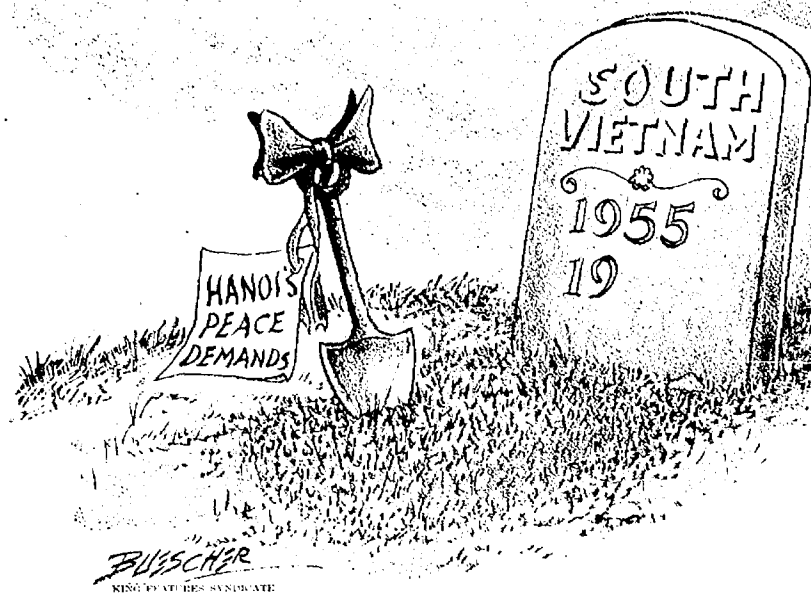

This aspect still remains but a greater loss is finally being recognized for what it is.

Those engaged in health work, doctors, psychiatrists, hospital people and the insurance industry, estimate there are 7 to 10 million Americans hooked on the sauce. This is not a Skid Row statistic. It is a national health hazard, cutting through impartially economic, social and racial denominators.

The economic loss is a manifold complex whose extent can only be guessed. It includes production failures and employment severance, the automobile toll, expense of treatment, not to mention the psychic damage to those close to the alcoholic.

Science as yet has no magical pill or powder cure for the disease; only the awareness that it is a psychic condition in which the victim's attitude toward accepting treatment under controlled conditions is all important.

Finding a replacement for the cup that cheers to get a person through from dawn to dusk, appears at this stage to be the best available solution.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

Editor,
The Herald-Press:

WORDS FROM AN EX-BARODA MAN

I was born on the Mead farm southwest of Baroda on Shawnee road 74 years ago. The farm is still being operated by Milan Mead. I have a brother in Baroda, O. E. Mead, supervisor of Baroda township. I left Baroda in 1932 with my wife and three children and headed west to Monterey, Calif. and have lived here ever since we arrived.

Down through the years we have always received The Herald-Press and thousands of letters and cards from relatives and friends. In the near 40 years we have been here we only missed visiting Michigan two years. The war was on and we couldn't get back.

I have made 35 trips that I went deer hunting with my brother, O. E. Mead, Bob Miller, a retired John Deere implement dealer at Baroda and Bill Botham, ex-mayor of Bridgman. I did not make the trip this year. Our camp is in the upper peninsula, 50 miles north of Iron Mountain.

Last year between the four of us we got one deer. And this year they saw very few deer. Fifteen years ago it was a poor day we did not see 20 deer. There is lots of feed where our camp is located and ideal shelter. But the way the Michigan Conservation department is trying to get the deer killed it sounds like you must have a bunch of homosexuals, running the department.

I have hunted deer in Michigan 50 years and never met a game warden in the woods. But when you meet one in public he is dressed as if he were headed for a fashion show. He has a warm comfortable office to operate out of, a good car, and receives good wages. So why should he get out in the woods and tear up his clothes, and at the same time take a chance of getting lost.

The game wardens here in California are no different than they are in Michigan or most other states. I think Oregon has the poorest game warden deal of any state.

There was an article in our Monterey paper about the cement boats being built here which calls my attention to the fellows that are building one there in St. Joseph on the Morrison channel. During the first World War there was a number of ocean going ships built of concrete.

A few days ago there was another article in The Herald-Press about the Benton Harbor fruit market. Unless things make a big change the market is sure doomed to close. When I was in Michigan, three years ago, I visited the market and got into a number of discussions with some of the growers and they just could not see how it could be forced to close.

There was a growers market out here in Fresno that operated like the Benton Harbor market and was owned by the growers. But when Chavez and his gang moved in, the growers got together and decided to close the market and sell the property and quit all the growing of fruit and vegetables that took a lot of labor.

Some growers moved to Mexico, others turned to growing crops that could be handled by themselves or with very little hired help.

Yes, the Benton Harbor market is on the way out.

Before I came to California I was in the produce business. My brother and I operated out of Baroda. We had trucks of our own and hired other trucks at times. I also operated on the Benton Harbor Market. I was buying for the late George Milkie and Art Spear at Derby.

I don't think that back in your part of the country the farmers or the fellows working in the shops stop to think what it will mean to the community if this Chavez and his gang puts over their ideas and organizes the farm laborers.

This farm deal if different than any other business. The farmer, where will he be when they pull a strike on him? His produce rate, if he goes ahead and harvests some and takes it down and sells it to some store, in short order, there is a picket in front of the store and when most farmers or growers lose a crop, they are wiped out. Since this Chavez started out Mexico has sure capitalized on the produce business here in this country.

I have spent some time in Mexico and they have lots of good land down there and lots of cheap labor, taxes are low. When this Chavez started this organizing farm labor around here and a big percentage of the growers here quit, hundreds of the Mexican nationalists here in this country had to return to Mexico.

The people were working here in the fields for $1.25 an hour or more and most of the berries and lettuce was harvested on a price basis and the laborers would make from $25 to $40 a day along with free rent in modern houses plus free county hospitals, free schools and unemployment benefits.

But when they went or were forced to return to their old homes down in Mexico where at least half of them live in shacks, no electricity, no floors in lots of them, no running water. They have to pay to send their children to school, no free medical care and no welfare in the whole of Mexico. Then if they can find a job on a farm the wages are from $1.50 to $1.75 a day.

Yes, I can and will write you a good article on this crooked deal. This is unless our President, Mr. Nixon decides to vacate his office and turn it over to the honorable Jimmie Hoffa.

I have always supported the Republican party. If these fellows are going to turn the job of running our country over to people like Hoffa, Beck, Reuther, Bridges, and a lot of big money fellows, I had better sit back and keep still.

Red Elections--

You Vote As Told

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is interesting now to recall a fact which has remained obscured these many years:

That in all probability the Vietnam war occurred because Hanoi refused at the Geneva talks almost two decades ago to agree to internationally supervised elections throughout Vietnam.

It has been customary of late to blame President Diem of South Vietnam, and the United States. News reports these past few years have claimed that the elections were not held because the United States and South Vietnam refused. The facts are otherwise.

During the Geneva talks, a considerable part of the discussion centered around how it should be finally decided whether North Vietnam and South Vietnam should be joined together.

Elections were recommended in principle, but said elections would have meaning only if they were free. To insure their honesty they would have to be run by some international agency. The United States recommended the United Nations.

If the elections were not so run and supervised, the United States said, this country could not go along. For the American representatives were certain there would be rigging. Americans had been observing Communist elections with their 97 per cent turnout and their 93 per cent approval for whatever the government proposed.

But Ho Chi Minh refused internationally-run and supervised elections. The United States and South Vietnam therefore did not approve the proposal. There were no U.S. government or South Vietnamese signatures on the document. And there was no official North Vietnamese signed agreement, either, to hold free elections.

This reporter has had long discussions with Asian Communists on the matter of elections. They believe in elections — but of a certain type. Elections are to be controlled. They are not to determine who is elected; that has been determined in advance.

The proper method in Asian Communist theory is for the men at the top, as the most "knowledgeable," to make the decision as to what men shall be elected. Selection by the men at the top, their ideological explain, is the "scientifically correct" method. The average man, they believe, does not have the background or the knowledge of the men or the job to be done to make the right decision.

But Communist-run elections have a purpose. By showing a heavy turnout and a landslide for the approved candidates (who may be unopposed) elections are run to give the people a sense that they are a part of the victorious majority approving the good man selected by their leaders.

Conservatives

Reap Rewards

It has largely gone unnoticed that, since the rebellion in conservative ranks against the Nixon Administration, conservatives have reaped a number of rewards. And the conjunction of rebellion with reward may not be entirely coincidental.

Where the Supreme Court is concerned, to be sure, President Nixon had long been pledged to a sharp break with the direction of the Warren Court, yet who would have anticipated quite so spectacular an appointment as William Rehnquist's? And add to that the sheer esthetic joy of seeing such an appointment resisted with total ineffectuality by Senators Kennedy, Bayh, and the rest as well as the New York Times.

And now, we have the Nixon budgetary proposals. One of the principal charges of John Ashbrook and the other rebelling conservatives has been that our strategic posture continues to deteriorate, and that the Administration stands idly by and lets this happen. Conservatives, indeed, have not been the only ones calling attention to the unfavorable shift in naval and nuclear capacity.

The budget now before us calls for some $6.3 billion more than last year — to be used for missile subs and for the upgrading of our naval, air, and mechanized forces.

There have been other things, both large and small: the near-commitment to the renomination of Spiro Agnew, made during the interview with Dan Rather; the language of the Child Development bill veto, some of it lifted directly from a major speech by Senator James Buckley; the appointment of non-sense Prof. Ronald Berman as chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Nixon once remarked that he had learned from the 1962 election in California that though a Republican cannot win with the conservative vote alone, he also cannot win without it. It appears to me that Nixon is making a substantial effort to ensure that he has the support of conservatives in 1972, and I made the point to one of the strategists of the Ashbrook campaign, which is — though you would not learn it from the media — doing surprisingly well in New Hampshire.

The Ashbrook backer agreed that our strategic posture was a big item, perhaps the big item. "But," he went on, it's not enough for the Administration to include that item in the budget."

'This Or Nothing' Benson Declares On Sewer Pact

A reluctant St. Joseph township Monday night may give its approval of a $661,300 increase in the cost of finishing the stalled Hickory Creek sewer interceptor.

Township Supervisor Orval Benson emerged Friday from a closed-door session of several hours with the Berrien board of public works (BPW) and said he'll present a resolution on extra sewer costs to his board at 7:30 Monday night — with a special provision.

The resolution he presents will have an added paragraph holding his township's share of extra costs to 36 per cent of the $660,000. The BPW will seek to sell in short-term notes or bonds to finish the stalled sewer, Benson said.

He declined to state what he'll recommend to his board but added: "I'm satisfied it's either this or nothing. I'm satisfied nothing better will come of it."

"We're either going to forget the sewer project or go along with it — that's what the board must make up its mind on at Monday night's meeting."

Benson said Detroit Atty. Charles Moon, counsel for the BPW in its lawsuit with the contractor who walked off the sewer line last April, has indicated there's nothing wrong with the "36 per cent of $660,000" provision because the same percentage applies to the original sewer contract.

Yerington & Harris, Inc., of Benton Harbor won the sewer job with a $1.5 million bid in December, 1969, walked off the job in April, 1971, and filed suit against the county to break its contract. After lengthy negotiations, the townships of St. Joseph and Lincoln — who would both be served by the sewer line — were asked Wednesday to agree to a settlement of the sewer dispute that would end the lawsuit and have the sewer finished hopefully by next December at an extra estimated cost of $661,300. The line is to be built in the original route, in the Hickory Creek ravine bottom.

Lincoln township, St. Joseph township's partner in the sewer line, indicated through its supervisor Wednesday that the proposal was acceptable. Lincoln's share of extra costs would be 64 per cent, the same share it bears in the original contract, according to BPW officials.

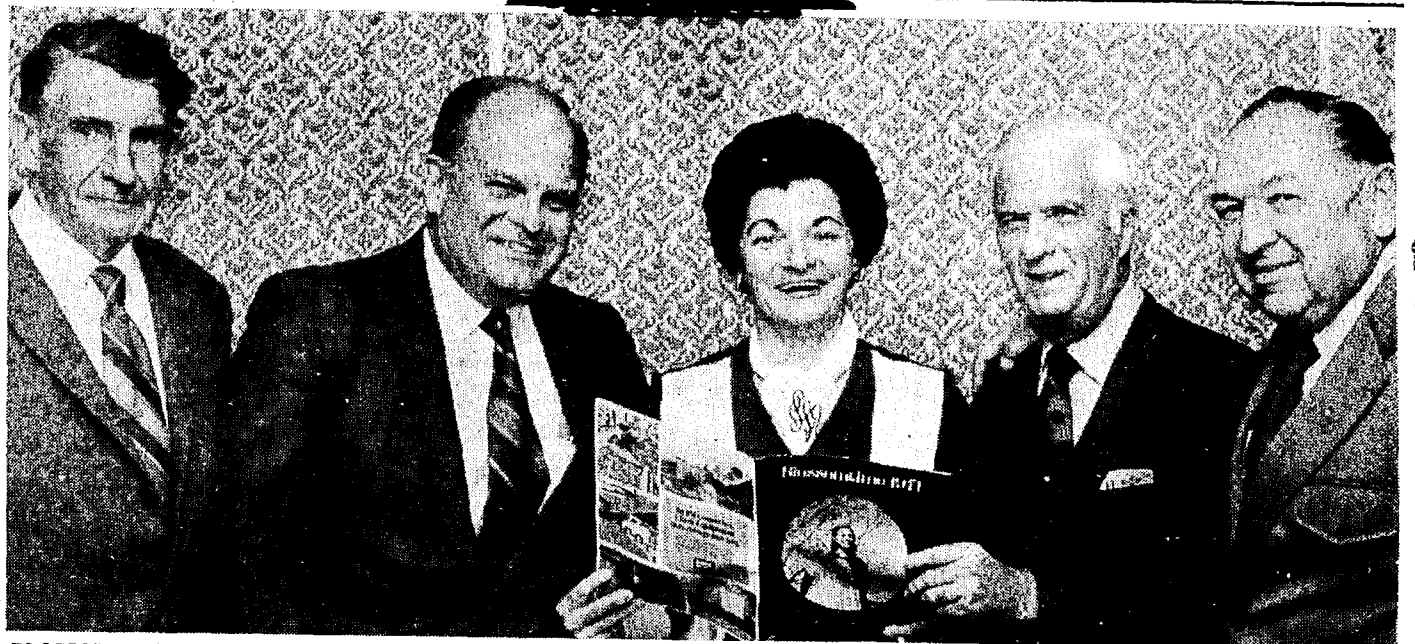

However, direct cost to the two townships for the extra $661,300 may be reduced or eliminated by federal grants, the townships were told Thursday.

Two Covert Students Sentenced

SOUTH HAVEN — Two Covert students were sentenced to 90 days in jail Friday by Seventh District Judge Donald Goodwillie Jr. in connection with the ransacking of Covert high school Thursday.

Merrill Is Named Concert Chief

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Murvin A. Merrill, Jr., has been named chairman of the Blossomtime concert committee, according to Jay W. Holt, president of Blossomtime, Inc.

Holt said Merrill will be in charge of acquiring professional entertainment for the concert which will be presented during Blossom Week, April 30-May 6.

The concert has provided the area with such names as Al Hirt, County Basie, The Four Freshmen, and John Gary. Last year the concert picked on the country-western popularity, by presenting Doti West and El Reeves. No final decision has been reached as to the headliner for this year's concert, but Merrill said he would make an announcement in the near future.

Merrill has assisted with the escorting and security of the blossom queens, during the four days of the key to the cities tour, for eight consecutive seasons. He has served 23 years with the sheriff's department.

He is a long-time member of the Berrien County's Sheriff's Posse, and the Michigan Sheriff's Posse association, currently a member of the board of directors of the Berrien County Youth fair and chairman of the youth fair aid and safety program.

Tickets are $1.50 adults, $1 children or $5 a family. The church is on Leeco court, south St. Joseph.

Officers Complete Course At LMC

Twenty-one police officers from various Berrien and Cass county law enforcement agencies graduated yesterday from a "Command Supervisors training school" which was conducted through Lake Michigan college and the Tri-County Law Enforcement Advisory committee.

Dr. Walter Browe, executive vice-president of LMC, spoke on the value of continuing education and training for professions such as law enforcement at the noon graduation held at Mr. Smorgasbord restaurant, St. Joseph.

Law enforcement coordinator, said instructors of the school, which was the second of its kind to be held here in recent years, were Special Agents James W. Gerten and Robert Kelly of the Washington headquarters of the FBI. Each of the 21 men will receive a graduation certificate from the FBI.

Graduating from the school were: Det. Lt. Harold Harris, Its. Fred Rellis and Jack Weatherly, and Sgt. Leon Hardy, all of the Benton Harbor police department; Chief Deputy Don Jewell, Sgts. Douglas Fishburn, James Leonard, and Douglas Tiefenbach of the Berrien sheriff's department; Sgts. Lincoln Will Tell Recreation Plans Public Invited To Meeting

A proposed comprehensive program for parks and recreation in Lincoln township will receive a public airing Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., before the township board's February meeting, in the township hall in Stevensville.

The program to be discussed places emphasis on developing land already owned by the township, and would, by development, quadruple the useable recreational land in the township by 1976. It would increase township expenditures on parks and recreation, over the next three years, from $10,000 to $30,000 annually, and calls for a voted ¼ mill levy, to be first collected in fiscal 1974-75, to cover the rise.

At Tuesday's meeting, the plan will be explained and questions about it answered, according to Lincoln township clerk Bernice Tretheway. She said the board is unlikely to take action on the plan Tuesday night, and may request an opinion from the township planning committee.

Any decision on the disposition of the plan will be made eventually by the township board, but the ¼ mill levy would have to go before township voters.

The plan was prepared by Gove Engineers, Inc., of Kalamazoo, and the Lincoln township Parks and Recreation advisory committee, a citizens council appointed by the township board.

In their report, Gove and the advisory committee say that the township has a serious lack of recreational facilities as measured by the state's minimum local recreation standards, and put forth a program they say would help correct the problem.

They call for giving the highest priority to the development of a large part of the township's recently acquired Smith property, at Roosevelt and John Beers road, as a recreational facility.

Another area whose development rates a high priority, the report says, is the Lincoln township beach, on the lake shore near the west end of (See back page, sec. 1, col. 8)

FINE, PROBATION

LMC Cage Star Is Sentenced

Robert Duane Demler, 18, of Stevensville, was sentenced Friday to one weekend in jail, fine and costs of $200, plus two years probation by Berrien Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond for entering a St. Joseph home without permission.

A starting center on Lake Michigan college's basketball team, Demler was sentenced for entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams, 1134 Castle court, St. Joseph where several containers of coins were taken.

Judge Hammond also outlined major terms of Demler's two year probation. They are: Ordered to make restitution of $700 to Mr. and Mrs. Williams; a midnight curfew saying that Demler must be in his place of residence by that time every night, except when traveling to away basketball games with his team, when he will be in the custody of his coach Ken Maxey and then too, must be in his quarters by midnight; since his parents paid the fine and court costs he has been ordered to repay his parents; when he receives an associate degree from LMC his probation will be terminated (Demler is currently a freshman in his second semester); and he must carry and pass at least 12 credit hours per semester.

Concerning the restitution of $700, Judge Hammond said "If new evidence can be produced that will convince me that the amount he actually took was less than $700 then the restitution order could be changed."

Demler pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to the entering without permission charge Jan. 6. Such a plea makes the defendant subject to sentence for an offense. However, it is not an admission of guilt and does not grant the defendant immunity in event of further proceedings.

ROBERT GAHRIS

Chemco Names Gahriss

Robert Gahriss of St. Joseph, has been named to the board of directors of Chemco, Inc., according to Board President Irwin Pintelke.

Gahriss, 49, who joined Chemco last year as controller, a position he will continue to fill, was elected board treasurer during the firm's recent stockholders' meeting at Holiday Inn in St. Joseph. He formerly was general accounting manager of the laundry group for Whirlpool Corp.

Chemco, with corporate offices at 1207 Ann street, St. Joseph, is active in a number of fields, including landscaping, irrigation and waste water control in private, commercial, industrial and municipal areas.

School Board To Meet Early

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven board of education will meet Monday instead of Feb. 14. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the superintendent's office.

Judge Declares Mistrial

What's a safe?

That was the question facing Berrien circuit court jurors late Friday, and they apparently couldn't agree on a definition because a safe robbery case ended in a mistrial.

James Albert Kirkpatrick, 34, of Marquette, was accused of breaking and entering a two-door York "safe" last Nov. 5 at Wickes Lumber Co., 2377 Marquette Woods road, Lincoln township.

Kirkpatrick did not take the stand, but court-appointed Defense Atty. John Dewane of Benton Harbor argued his client was innocent because the "safe" was a filing cabinet. Two witnesses, employees of Brown's Locksmiths of Benton Harbor, testified for Dewane that the object in question was a fireproof filing cabinet or record container.

Witnesses for Quentin Fulcher, chief assistant prosecutor, testified the item was used to keep money, and Fulcher argued it was a safe because it was a metal receptacle used for money storage.

Jurors deliberated from midafternoon until 9:32 p.m. Friday, for a total of 5½ hours, before announcing to Judge William S. White that they were hopelessly deadlocked. The judge declared a mistrial and ordered Kirkpatrick returned to jail in lieu of $25,000 bond to await new trial.

Kirkpatrick was one of two men arrested at or near the scene of the offense shortly after police were summoned.

The term "safe" is not defined in law relative to the offense. Safe robbery carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Niles Bank Denied South SJ Branch

The Comptroller of The Currency, the regulatory agency for nationally-chartered banks, this week rejected a petition from the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan to establish a branch office in the Glenford road vicinity, south of St. Joseph.

The Niles financial institution filed the request last October for a site on Red Arrow highway across the street from the Snowflake Motel.

Following its customary practice, the Comptroller's did not state a reason for the turnaround.

Lee B. Cousins, First National's senior vice president, said the bank's attorneys are studying the ramifications in demanding a public hearing on the petition. The bank took that route last year to reverse a prior denial for a Fairplain office.

Under the public hearing procedure, the Comptroller must state his reasons for approving or denying a branch petition. A party disagreeing with the decision can pursue an appeal through the federal courts.

First National applied for the Glenford site three years ago and then dropped the case as the argument over its Fairplain office shaped up with the Farmers & Merchants and the Inter-City Banks.

It reinstated the Glenford petition after winning the Fairplain contest.

AND THAT'S A LOT OF FIGURES: Palladium Publishing Co. employees bade goodbye Friday to Mrs. Hazel M. Miller, who retired from accounting department after 25 years and five months. Company earlier presented her with wristwatch and employees Friday gave her cakes by Judi Abruscato, a cash purse and a hostess gown. Mrs. Miller, of 1332 Jennings avenue, Benton township, isn't sure what she'll do in retirement but may keep her hand in with part-time office work. (Staff photo)

Viking Duke Reigns As Niles Beats Bears

By JOHN VANDEN HEEDER
Staff Sports Writer

NILES — The Viking Duke reigned supreme at the Niles court Friday night.

The Duke, the nickname for Niles' Duane Garner, ruled first half basketball action with 18 points while exciting St. Joseph with a 78-73 Big Six defeat.

Garner netted a nifty seven of seven field goals over the first two quarters as the Vikings posted a 41-30 half-time lead which stood up in the second half against a valiant comeback effort by coach George Gaunder's Bears.

"We set him one-on-one over on the side in a special offense," explained Niles coach Dean Adams of the setup which saw the cat-quick Garner leave his Bear defenders helplessly behind while breaking in for easy layups. "As long as they were going to stay in a man-to-man that was all we were going to do."

St. Joe adjusted with a matching defense to hold Garner to five points in the second half, but the 6-2 senior forward still took game honors with 23 tallies. The other Vikings starters also ended up in double figures with Skip Muir getting 15, Bill Weaver 14, Gary Shafer 13 and Steve Yackey 13.

Senior forward Tom Crossman carried the Bears with 20 points and 10 rebounds despite missing part of the game because of early foul problems. He meshed 9 of 13 field goal attempts while recording his highest varsity output. Packy Ryan added 15 points and Dennis Kugle had 10. Gaunder said Garner's early burst was the result of a "defense error."

"The difference in the game was not being able to play the game we play. . . run and shoot," added the Bear mentor. "We were not taking the play to them, they were taking the play to us. When we picked up the tempo a little bit in the second half, I think it helped us."

St. Joe improved its field goal shooting from a weak 35 per cent in the first half, where Ryan hit just 1 of 8 attempts, to 42 per cent over the final two periods. A fourth quarter press also helped put the Bears back into contention.

Niles was leading by its biggest margin of the game at 66-53 with 5½ minutes left to play when St. Joe went to the press.

The Bears promptly scored 18 of the next 26 points with the help of six fourth quarter Niles turnovers to cut the margin to 74-71 with 1:02 remaining. But fouls then caught up to St. Joe with Niles icing the game at the free throw line.

Both teams made 30 field goals, but St. Joe finished with 23 fouls as compared to just 12 for Niles. The Vikings got the margin of victory in charities despite hitting just 18 of 31 attempts (58 per cent). St. Joe went 13 for 18

Tigers 'Snow' Trojan Five

By JIM DeLAND
Sports Editor

Traverse City's basketball team beat Mother Nature, but the Trojans were no match for Benton Harbor Friday night.

Coach Jim Raymond's club negotiated the 25-mile trip down the wind-whipped Lake Michigan coastline without incident only to be snowed under by the Tigers, 93-57, in their Lake Michigan Athletic Conference duel at the Colfax gym.

It was the seventh straight victory for the Tigers, who brought a smile to coach Earl McKee's face with a whirlwind performance that produced their highest scoring total in two years.

"I'm pleased. . . I really am," McKee admitted. "We played hard just about all the way without those flat spots and we played together pretty well, too. We made some mistakes, but we did a lot of things right."

The Tigers easily could have granted their fans' request for 100 points, but McKee chose instead to play his substitutes the entire fourth quarter and they rewarded his confidence by outscoring the Trojans 21-11.

Despite their limited time on the court, four of the five Benton Harbor starters hit double figures, with guard

Don Childs leading the way with 24 points after sinking six shots without a miss during the third quarter.

Forward Anthony Wooden scored 14 points while James Jackson and John Hunt added 12 apiece.

Indicative of the Tigers' improving teamwork is the fact that Hunt had 11 assists and Childs seven as the ringleaders in the team's zone offense and devastating fast break.

Jackson was the kingpin under the boards, hauling down 14 rebounds and terrorizing the Trojans with his shot-blocking ability.

Center Jim Meachum did an admirable job for Traverse City against the taller Tigers and finished the game with a career high of 17 points — his previous high was six — but guard Dave Whiteford with 12 and forward Bob Chase with 11 were the only other Trojans to score with any effectiveness at all.

Traverse City actually led once at 8-7 after a layup by Whiteford midway through the first quarter, but by the time the Trojans scored again they were trailing 21-8 after a 14-point Tiger barrage in less than two minutes.

Even at their worst, the Tigers were too much for the Trojans. They missed their first 12 shots of the second quarter — the only lapse in an otherwise deadly shooting exhibition — but still scored the first eight points of the period to pad their lead to 35-14.

They switched from their 2-1-2 zone into a man-to-man defense in the second half, but continued at their same pace otherwise, swishing 12 of 16 shots and increasing their lead to 72-46 despite the gradual infiltration of substitutes.

When it was all over, they had hit on 41 of 87 shots for a typical 47 per cent average and 11 of 21 free throws. Traverse City sank only 20 of 63 shots (.317) and 19 of 31 free throws, with only eight baskets in the entire second half.

"They're tough," Raymond admitted of the Tigers. "They're big and they're fast and they've improved 80 per cent since the first time we played them. . . 70 per cent, at least."

Aside from their other problems, the Trojans were plagued by a total of 34 turnovers — some attributable to Benton Harbor's swarming defense and some to the pace of the game, which was a little too fast for both teams at times.

The victory keeps Benton Harbor firmly atop the LMAC standings with a 7-1 league record and gives the Tigers a 10-2 slate to carry into next week's non-league games against Niles on Tuesday and Kalamazoo Hackett on Friday, both at the Colfax gym.

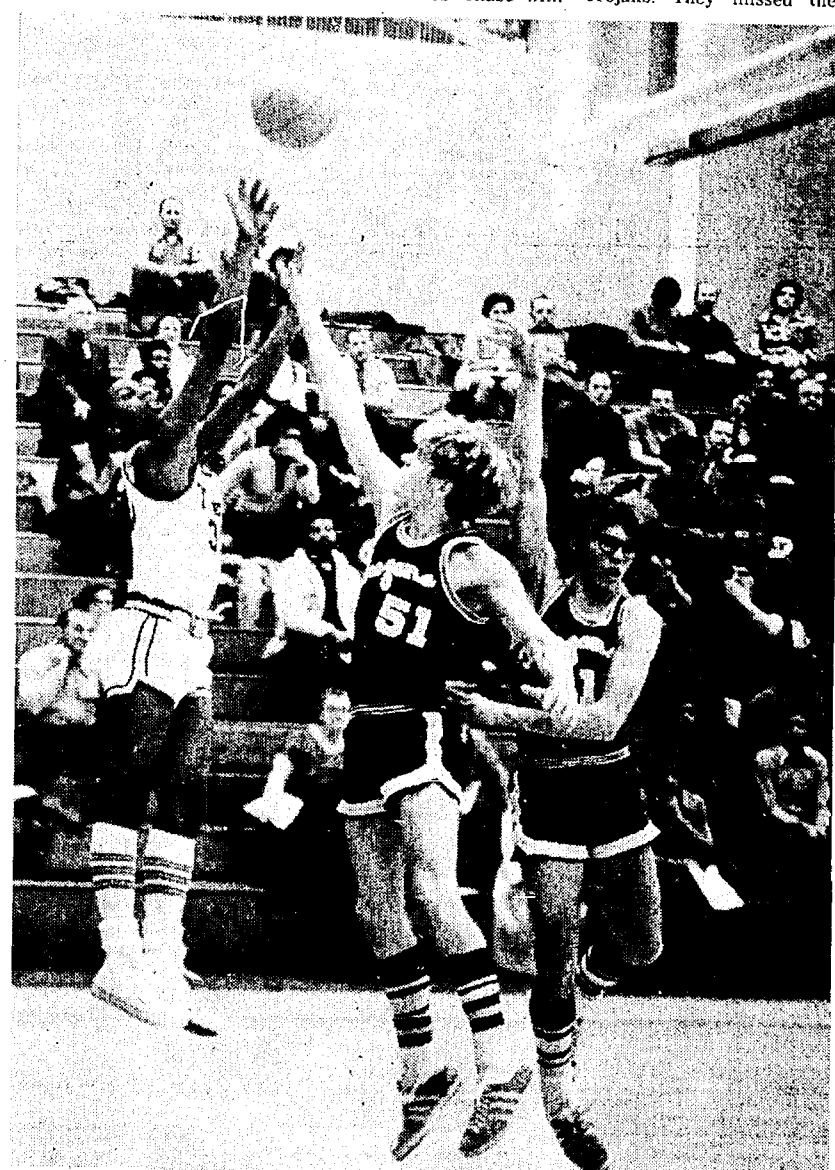

Coach Jim Rutter's Tiger Cubs made a complete success of the evening by romping to a 91-44 victory over the Traverse City junior varsity in the preliminary game.

Jettie Rice had 22 points and Gary Phillips 21 for the Tiger Cubs, with freshman Napoleon Redman adding 12.

Bangor Gains Title Share

BANGOR — Bangor clinched at least a share of its fourth straight KVA basketball championship with a 64-52 triumph over Mattawan here Friday night.

Coach Norm Johnson's unbeaten Vikings, now 7-0 in the league with three conference contests remaining, had to battle from behind in the second half.

Bangor started with all-starer Walt Cloud and Mike Dinkins on the bench for "minor disciplinary reasons" and fell behind 14-10 after the first quarter and 28-21 at halftime. The Vikings were also down by as many as 10 at the start of the second half. "We then went into a half court press," noted Johnson. "We started to move and play good basketball at that point and kept right on going."

Johnson credited the front men on the press, Chuck Emmert and Bob Blakely, for making the defense work. The Vikings cut the gap to 40-39 at the end of the third quarter, before blowing Mattawan off the court over the final eight minutes with a 25-12 scoring advantage. Cloud netted 11 points in the fourth period, including 9 of 12 at the free throw line, while Dinkins added nine points. Cloud, who entered the game late in the first quarter, finished as the game's leading pointmaker with 21 tallies. Dinkins added 15, Blakely 10 and Louie Johnson 10. Wall Carnes topped Mattawan with 16 points. Rick Kuiper added 14 and Chuck Zagar 10.

Bangor meshed 22 of 59 field goals (37 per cent) and 20 of 29 free throws. Mattawan was 22 of 63 from the floor (35 per cent) and only 8 for 18 in charities. Team rebounding was all even with 35 apiece.

Bangor, ranked third in this week's Associated Press poll, has now won 13 straight this season. Mattawan, which has now lost 15 in a row to the Vikings, is now 3-4 in the KVA and 5-7 overall.

Bangor also won Friday's junior varsity game 65-58 with Steve Krogel scoring 21 points. Mattawan won the freshman game 50-46 in overtime.

Lakers Wipe Out Panthers During Cold Third Quarter

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Watervliet coach Terry Voogd would like to wipeout the third quarter of Friday night's Panther-Lake Michigan Catholic basketball game.

Unfortunately for Voogd, rules don't permit such tampering.

The winless Panthers, hitting 37 per cent from the field excluding the disastrous third period, fell to the host Lakers 63-57 for their 11th straight loss of the season.

In the third quarter Watervliet could only sink two of 13 shots outcourt and three of eight free throws for seven points. Meanwhile, LMC, which trailed by as many as 11 points in the second period, forged into the lead for the first time early in the quarter and never fell behind again.

"That third period just killed us," moaned Voogd. "We couldn't adjust to their pressure defense in the quarter. And our outside shooting went cold."

Although discouraged by the outcome, Voogd was pleased with the team's overall effort. "Outside of the third quarter, I thought we played a fine game. The kids gave 100 per cent and never quit. I can't ask much more of them."

The contest was decided on the charity stripes.

The Panthers netted one more field goal than the Lakers (23-22), but sank only 11 of 26 free throws (42 per cent) to 19 of 31 for LMC.

Watervliet hardly looked like a winless team in the first period. It connected on seven of 12 shots and built a 17-11 margin at the end of the period. Greg Bain entered the game with two minutes gone and dropped in six points to spark the Panthers.

The Panthers increased their advantage to 11 points early in the second quarter but then the Lakers came surging back, mainly by pouring in eight free throws. LMC outscored the Panthers 12-4 the last 5:45 of the quarter and only trailed 30-27 at intermission.

LMC continued its comeback following the break by scoring the first five points of the third quarter. Gary Pelkey's fastbreak bucket at 6:54 put the Lakers into the lead to stay, 31-30.

Meanwhile, Watervliet missed its first seven shots from outcourt and started to throw the ball away, due to the tenacious Laker defense. The winners built a 42-37 edge to carry into the final eight minutes.

The Lakers rolled off six consecutive points to take a 58-47 advantage with only 2:40 left and seemingly had the game under control. But the Panthers had other ideas.

Forward Tom Formsma, held scoreless for three quarters, dumped in two straight baskets to bring the Panthers to 60-55 with 30 seconds remaining.

Then Panther guard Tom Camp stole the Lakers' inbound pass and was fouled with 24 seconds showing on the clock. But Camp missed both foul shots and the Lakers' Vytus Ambutas was fouled hauling down the rebound on Camp's second shot.

Ambutas calmly popped in both shots, his only two points of the night, to give the Lakers an insurmountable 62-55 lead with 21 seconds to go.

Center Dave Carnegie paced the LMC scoring with 15 points, including three vital buckets in the final quarter. Pelkey added 13, nine on free throws.

"I think we had a natural letdown tonight following our great game against Bridgman last week," observed Laker coach Sam Skarich. "But you have to give credit to Watervliet. They hustled and really scrapped all night."

"I was really pleased with our defensive effort after that first quarter. We really shut them out, especially in the third quarter."

Bain, who hit eight of nine shots from the field, led all scorers with 20 points, his high output of the season. Frank Megna added 11.

"Bain really did a great job for us," added Voogd. "He won himself a starting job out there tonight."

Watervliet ended with a 46 per cent shooting average to the Lakers' 34 per cent. Both clubs pulled down 32 rebounds, according to LMC charts.

The Panthers committed 17 turnovers, 11 coming in the second half. LMC had 14.

The Lakers are now 3-6 in North Wins Draft

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South beat the North 26-21 in the Senior Bowl football game Jan. 8 but the North had the last laugh with every member of the squad being drafted by National Football League teams.

Belfast Guerrilla Arrests

Total 1,000 In 6 Months

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Few people in the streets of this battle-scarred city bother to look up anymore when a helicopter lifts off from Crumlin Jail and heads west.

The sight by now is a common one. The helicopter is transporting yet another group of suspected guerrillas to internment without trial.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner introduced internment six months ago to counter the bloody campaign by guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army—IRA—to merge Northern Ireland with the neighboring Irish Republic.

Since then, more than 1,000 men have been "lifted," usually taken from their homes in dawn raids by the British army.

Recently the rate of lifting—Belfast jargon for arrest—has stepped up to more than 100 a week. About half are quickly released. The rest face indefinite incarceration under Northern Ireland's Special Powers Act of 1920, which gives the government virtually unlimited power regardless of the normal processes of law.

First, the arrested man is served with a detention order, permitting him to be held for up to 30 days while his record is investigated. Generally, a detainee is taken to the "C" wing of Crumlin Jail near Belfast's city center or aboard the prison ship Maldstone, moored in sight of Belfast's sprawling shipyards.

Once incarcerated, the detainee may be served with a "movement" order, meaning he is due for interrogation in depth by methods which opponents charge amount to torture.

A report last year found that suspects were kept for days without sleep, standing for long periods spreadeagled against a wall. Their diet was a slice of bread and a glass of water every six hours. They were subjected to amplified electronic noise intended to intensify their feeling of isolation. The British, admitting interrogations may involve a measure of mistreatment, contend that the method is necessary to save innocent lives.

Interrogation over, the suspect is returned to Crumlin or the prison ship, and an order, signed by Faulkner or an authorized officer, makes the detainee officially an internee. A helicopter takes him to one of two camps, Long Kesh or Magilligan. In early February, about 600 men were under internment and more than 200 were in the detention stage.

Long Kesh, the first camp to open, stands on a disused airfield near British Army headquarters at Lisburn, seven miles west of Belfast.

Internees live in army huts, 40 to a hut in double bunks. They are guarded by unarmed officers of the civil prison service. Army units control the perimeter fence and are called into the camp only in case of riot.

Magilligan, on the shores of Lough Foyle near Londonderry, was opened late last year. It is in sight of the Irish Republic, a fact which prompted the Republic's prime minister, Jack Lynch, to brand its opening a provocation.

Escape plans figure high on the internees' agenda. A recent search of Long Kesh uncovered two tunnels and dummy weapons including a wooden replica of a Thompson machine gun, the IRA's favorite weapon.

Only one Protestant is known to be held, and he was active in the People's Democracy, a leftist student group identified with the IRA.

Faulkner contends that internment has removed known gunmen from the streets and has provided a wealth of intelligence through interrogation.

The army, which is generally believed to have been against internment at the beginning, accepts that the yield in intelligence has been considerable.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT
FOR THE COUNTY OF BERRIEN
ORDER TO ANSWER
File No. D-4027-W
ROLAND E. WALLIN, Plaintiff vs.
At a session of said Court held at the Court House in the City of St. Joseph, Michigan, on the 29 day of January, 1972.
Present: Honorable WILLIAM S. WHITE, Circuit Judge.
On reading and filing the bill of complaint in said cause, and the affidavit of Attorney Russell J. Taylor attached thereto, from which it satisfactorily appears to the Court that the Defendants above named, or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties defendant in the above entitled cause, and
It is further ordered that after diligent search and inquiry, it cannot be ascertained, and it is not known whether or not said defendants are living or dead or where any of them may reside if living, and, if dead, whether they have personal representatives or heirs living or where they or some of them may reside, and further that the present whereabouts of said defendants are unknown and that the names of the persons who are included therein without being named, but who are embraced therein under the title of unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cannot be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry.
On motion of Russell J. Taylor, Attorney for Plaintiff, it is ORDERED that said defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order, and in default thereof that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed by the said defendants, their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, and that a copy of this order be published in the St. Joseph Herald-Press, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said County, such publication to be continued therein once each week for four weeks in succession.)

GOP Campaigners Blast Dem 'Flip-Flop Critics'

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
President Nixon's re-election campaign is being geared up with GOP spokesmen in California and New Hampshire calling the Democratic field a group of "flip-flop critics" who have been on all sides of almost every issue.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, opposed to the President on certain issues in the past, backed his party's boss firmly Friday formally opening Nixon's quest for California's bloc of 45 electoral votes, largest in the nation.

"This is an election that will match a solid and consistent performer against a group of politicians who have been on every side of almost every issue," Reagan said of the June 6 primary.

Reagan, who challenged Nixon for the 1968 nomination and has split occasionally with Nixon on welfare reform most recently, is chairman of the California Campaign to Reelect the President.

In New Hampshire, meanwhile, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said the Democrats attacking Nixon's latest peace efforts are "flip-flop critics."

"What amazes me," Morton said in a Salute to the President dinner speech in Concord, "is that many of these critics were the architects of the policies we are trying to correct. They have repudiated their previous decisions without a blush of shame."

Morton, formerly a Maryland congressman and GOP national chairman, was in New Hampshire to help launch Nixon's campaign for the nation's first primary March 7.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who has been the target of much GOP rhetoric for his recent criticism of Nixon's peace moves, said at a rally in Skokie, Ill., that he "will keep talking about Vietnam until someone in power proposes a peace plan that could succeed instead of repeating past plans that have failed."

Muskie proposed setting a specific date for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina with the release of prisoners of war and safety of the troops the only conditions.

The Maine Democrat, also campaigning in Wisconsin for that state's April 4 primary, received a standing ovation at the University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire when he said the nation's No. 1 job is halting the Vietnam war—a war he said that "has acted as a dam holding back our nation's resources."

Muskie also received a broadside from the Democratic side as Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota again renewed a challenge for a televised debate in New Hampshire.

McGovern's campaign coordinator Frank Mankiewicz said in Washington Muskie will be "repudiating his own slogan" of trust and confidence if he does not accept McGovern's offer.

Muskie's office said later the senator will be campaigning in Florida Feb. 16, when McGovern wants to debate, but did not absolutely rule out a debate at another time.

McGovern himself has been challenged to a debate in New Hampshire by another Democrat, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana.

In other political developments:

MCGOVERN: McGovern's national campaign manager said the South Dakota senator will concentrate his money on New Hampshire, skipping the Florida race because "Florida is a public relations state."

"We don't have the bankroll to dominate the networks," said Gary Hart at a New York news conference, adding McGovern would spend about $200,000 in New Hampshire.

URGES HIJACK NEWS BAN: Dr. David G. Hubbard, Dallas psychiatrist, suggested a 90-day freeze on news about air piracy to give the airline industry time to organize its own protection. "My objection is that the media are betraying to the next potential hijacker exactly the methods used by previous hijackers," he said. Hubbard was also critical of the Justice Department for what he termed their "bull headed" approach to the investigation of skyjacking. The doctor is a consultant to the Federal Aviation Administration. (AP Wirephoto)

Jet Noise Causes FHA Mortgage Ban

DETROIT (AP) — The federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has adopted regulations banning FHA mortgages on new homes near two metropolitan Detroit airports because of excessive noise from jet airplanes.

The "noise pollution blacklist" affects areas surrounding Metropolitan Airport west of Detroit and Selfridge Air National Guard Base near Mount Clemens.

The list was published about eight months ago and is based upon noise pollution standards established by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) office in Chicago.

The regulations which HUD sponsors must follow in any affected area place homes into three noise zones. Zone three entails requirements so strict that FHA-insured mortgages are impossible.

There are at least two contractors building large housing developments in zone-three territory near Metropolitan Airport. Both developers sell homes with FHA, Veterans Administration or conventional mortgages.

HUD officials said Friday the zone three rating indicates an actual or potential noise of 120 decibels, which is the loudness of a jet plane taking off. The threshold of pain is 130 decibels.

According to Theodore Lada, HUD chief appraiser, whenever an FHA mortgage is requested in the blacklisted area it will either be rejected by his office or sent to the FAA for advice.

WHERE THE HEART OF THE HOME VALUE IS:

HERE'S A DOOZIE IF YOU'RE CHOOSY:

This delightful 3 bedroom brick rancher in the North-Lincoln School District. 1 1/2 baths, full basement and a charmer of a fireplace (where you can unwind from the day and curl up your toes and relax). You just have to see to believe and all you have to do is call!

URGE TO S-P-R-E-A-D OUT:

Coloma School District. 2,000 feet of living space to s-p-r-e-a-d out in! What a joy to call this home! 3 bedroom split-level and Dad curl up and light your pipe by the delight of a fireplace. Formal dining room (Mom can have the crowd over easily). Kids will play it cool in this marvelous buy!

DOLLAR DIZZY?

Don't need to be in this deal of deals. This has so much to offer for dollar value that we could go on and on, but you must see it to know, it is for real! Two fireplaces, not 1 but 2. 4 bedroom split level, and recroom overlooking fenced in pool. Talk about heaven . . .
call and we'll take you right to the clouds!

SPACE CAPSULES AND ASTRONAUTS:

The mode of the day is this mod way of living. Like the smell of old time cherry or apple wood? Just put the logs into this wood-burning fireplace in the rec room and Mom and Dad, pull up the Mr. and Mrs. chairs and talk things over, like Grandmother and Grandfather used to do—remember? St. Joseph Schools on Nelson Road . . . just call and give you all the X-ceptional details.

ONWARD WITH PLATFORMATE!

You will get all the happy mileage you want with this older home with a recipe of happiness. 4 bedrooms painted with love and tender loving care. Carpeting and drapes and (yes) even a fireplace. This all is in a setting of over 100 acres of land. Ermine setting in a winter wonderland & what a buy! Call—and we'll be at your beck and call!

NEEDED!!! HOMES TO SELL . . .

Sales have been good. We have buyers and we can arrange the financing . . . We have the know-how and the show-how. All we need are homes! If you are thinking of selling, please give us a jingle right now and we will be happy to talk to you . . . no obligation.
We are happy to do it!
